

A new MGMA survey finds that medical practices across the country are being left out of COVID-19 rollout efforts. The survey revealed a staggering 85 percent of independent practices and 45 percent of hospital or health system-owned practices actively seeking the COVID-19 vaccine for their patients report having obtained none to date. The majority of practices that have obtained the vaccine report only receiving enough to vaccinate 1 percent or less of their patients.

71% of medical practices report not being able to obtain the vaccine for their patients.

85% of independent medical groups report not being able to obtain the vaccine for their patients.

45% of hospital or health system-owned practices report not being able to obtain the vaccine for their patients.

This survey was conducted January 21-24, 2021, with a total of 403 responses from medical group practices that are already or planning to administer the COVID-19 vaccine to their patients.

ABOUT MGMA

Founded in 1926, the Medical Group Management Association (MGMA) is the nation's largest association focused on the business of medical practice management. MGMA consists of 15,000 group medical practices ranging from small private medical practices to large national health systems representing more than 350,000 physicians. MGMA helps nearly 60,000 medical practice leaders and the healthcare community solve the business challenges of running practices so that they can focus on providing outstanding patient care.
